As a urologist, Dr. Goldstein specializes in diagnosing and treating diseases of the urinary system, which includes the bladder, kidneys, ureters and urethra. A urologist also treats conditions involving the reproductive organs and the adrenal glands. Some conditions he might see are urinary tract infections, enlarged prostate, interstitial cystitis and kidney stones.

Dr. Goldstein has held academic positions, including Assistant Clinical Professor, University of Pennsylvania Health System and affiliated hospitals, and Assistant Professor of Clinical Urology at the Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Goldstein was employed by the Lehigh Valley Health System in the Scranton area prior to joining Wayne Memorial in 2024.
